AMONG THE STRIKERS.

THE DENVER AND RIO GRANDE

Poradirg the Town With Banners, Burning an Editor in Fffigo, and Boycotting Unpopular Mer-chants—The Threats of Socialists in De-troit—A Brickmakers' Strike,

DENVER, Col., May 18 .- The strike of the shop hands of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad assumed a very serious aspect to-day, In accordance with an announcement made at the strikers' meeting yesterday afternoon, at which several incendiary speeches were made, about 500 men and 60 or 100 women assembled in the vicinity of the shop this morning, and severel inflammatory speeches were made. Songs were sung and a general demonstration of defiance was indulged in. One of the yard men returning to work, was set upon by the crowd and knocked down, kicked and cut in the face in the most brutal manner. The other workmen were escorted through the crowd by a posse of deputy United States marshals. About 8 o'clock two or three hundred of the strikers formed in line and marched to town. A halt was made in front of the office of the newswas made in front of the office of the news-paper which has criticised the action of the men in striking and denounced some of their sidesigning leaders." The proprietors of the paper were burned in effigy by the mob amid the jeers and yells of the defiant crowd, which then proceeded up Sixteenth street. At Shedd's crape store another halt was made and the same programme was gone through with. It appears that Shedd recently dis-charged a saleslady who belonged to the woman's branch of the Knights of Labor orwoman's branch of the Knights of Labor organization without asking the consent of that body. Circulars comcommanding the reader to boycot Shedd's store and the newspapers were everywhere distributed. Interviews had with a large number of the best citizens to-day prove that whatever sympathy they had retained for the strikers up to the time of the demonstration was lost them by their riotous conduct of this morning. No arrests have yet been made.

NO REION OF TERROR.

LYNCHBURG, Va., May 18.—The reign of terror reported in the Flat Top coal region, Tazewell county, has no existence in fact. Numerous outrages has no existence in fact. Numerous outrages occurred there some time ago, but are believed to have been the work of Molly Maguires from Pennsylvania. An associated prees correspondent to day interviewed an officer of the Norfolk and Western railroad, who spent a part of last week at the mines, and he denied the existence of any trouble. A telegram just received from Pocohontas says: "Everything is quiet; not even a pistol shot las been heard, although last Saturday was pay day." A revival is in progress there.

The Michigan Central car shops and the Detroit car wheel works have all received threatening notices during the past two weeks from the socialists, telling them they must quit work. There is apparently no dissatisfaction among the employes, and no demands have been made of any kind. and iron workers are in a situation that promises very little in the way of an adjustment of prices for the next year. Whatever is done will have to be accomplished before the first of June, not quite two weeks from the present. Each side seems to be holding out firmly for their respective positions, and both are emphatic in their statements that if there is a settlement of the wage question, it will have to come through advances from the other side. As the matter stands at present, and from the unusual briskness about the mills, it would seem that the strike was to be in order from the 1st of June. The was to be in order from the 1st of June. The mills are running with the evident object in view of increasing their stocks to the utmost and the workmen are considering the advisa bility of establishing stores throughout the district for the purpose of supplying the members of the smalgamated association with goods

CHICAGO, May 18.—The rolling mills of the North Chicago mill company, situated at south Chicago, resumed operations to-day with a force of 1,800 men. The mills shut down April 1st, owing to the general strike of workmen, whose demands for 25 cents per day advance in wages was not satisfied. The company claimed it was losing money at the wages then paid. To-day the strikers went back at the old wages. STRIKERS GO BACK TO WORK.

the Publishers.

New York, May 18.—General Grant last hight rested well, and regained his usual complement of sleep. He did not experience great pain last night, nor does he to-day. He aroused between 8 and 9 o'clock this morning, and was feeling comparatively high and and was feeling comparatively bright and strong.

A mass of revised proof and new manuscript for the forthcoming book was taken by Colonel Grant to the publishers this morning. The general will do no work to-day.

To day a reaction for the bet'er took place in the condition of General Grant. This applies selely to his general condition, bodily, not to his local condition as affected by the cancer. He passed the day quietly, simply reviewing some of the work of his book, and expects to-morrow to resume the dictation, if he feels as well as he did to-day. "This was one of his good days," said Colonel Fred Grant, "but the general did not feel like going out. He may go out to-morrow, possibly, if the weather permits. His throat still continues tery sore."

THE TRIAL OF RIEL. The Government at a Loss to Know What to Do With Him.

Ottawa, Ont., May 18.—The government has not yet considered the case of Riel. The best lawyers here say he will be tried for treason felony under the treason felony act of 1869. He may be tried either by general court martial or by an ordinary civil tribunal. Chief Justice Walbridge, of Manitoba, was asked what course would be adopted in regard to the trial of Riel. His lordship replid that according to the law he would have to be tried in the district or province where he was captured, namely, Saskatchewan. He could not be brought to Winnepeg or sent to Ottawa. The dominion government might issue a special commission and send up judges to try him. Special judges for the occasion might be appointed, but the trial would have to take place in the province where Reil was captured. FORGING THE FETTERS AROUND CLUVERIUS.

The Hat and Veil and Shawl Identified-The Letters Found in the Trunk-Miss Lillian's Previous Visits to Richmond-Identifying the Handwriting of Cluverius-Etc,

RICHMOND, Va., May 18 .- In the Claverius trial this morning, the colored chamber maid, Henrietta Wimbush, was further cross-examined by the defense without eliciting anything new. In reply to a question by the prosecution, she said she saw the prisoner at the police court at the time of the examining trial, when she and the floor servant at the Exchange hotel, both recognized him.

Miss Ettie Madison, first cousin Lillian Madison, was sworn. She testified that her cousin, Lillian came to Richmond on the 10th of last October, and was the guest of her aunt. She remained four days. The witness last saw her on the 14th of October. Lillian remained every night at her aunt's except one, which she spent at her cousin's, Wm. H. Madison. She did not go on the street often. On Sunday and Monday afternoon, during that visit, she went to her cousin's E. C. Jones's house. Lillian did not spend the night of the 6th of January at her aunt's. Lillian was almost an entire stranger in Richmond, and she had never, to witness' knowledge, been either at Holly wood cemetery or the reservoir. Lillian was in Richmond seven years ago, and again two and as-half years since. At he last two visits she spent two weeks each time. The witness did believe Development.

did not know Dunston's family.
E. C. Jones, first cousin of Lillian, testified that she was not at his house in January. The last time she was there was on the 14th of last October. He had lived in Richmond nine years. He remembered that Lillian had visi-ted Richmond three times in years past, but could not name the dates. He did not know where the Dunstons lived, and did not know whether Lillian ever met the Dunston girls or not.

D. C. Richardson, police justice of Richmond, had received from Bath county a trunk and bag containing the clothing, letters and other articles, among them a number of envelopes. He removed all the letters and envelopes. velopes and kept them in his possession until he turned them over to the common-wealth. The witness was here shown a letter and a piece of written poetry, which he said he had found at the bottom of the trunk under a newspaper spread on the bottom. He iden-tified both. He was also shown several letters and envelopes which he identified as having been taken from the trunk by himself. He had received a note, inclosed in an envelope, addressed to T. J. Cluverius, which he had also turned over to the commonwealth.

The defense objected to each question and answer separately, but each time the objection was overruled, and each time the defense excepted. The trunk and bag were called for by the defense, and were brought into court. A discussion enough as to the right of the defense discussion ensued as to the right of the defense to examine the contents at this time. The

The witness said he had taken out all the papers in the trunk, which was opened in the presence of an officer of this court and the inther of the deceased. He had taken out in all about one hundred articles, including twenty-five or thirty photographs. He had examined and read every paper in the trunk. The witness identified several large sealed en-The witness identified several large scaled envelopes, containing a letter and watch and chain, and other articles found on the prisoner when he was arrested.

transactions with him, in which his writing was necessary. A postal card which the de fense admitted was in the prisoner's writing, letter and an envelope were shown and the witness said he thought the writing in all three instances had been done by T. J. Cluve-rius. The other letters and envelopes pre-viously shown to Police Justice Richardson, the witness thought, were in the handwriting of Cluverius. A piece of poetry found in the trunk (which is of the ost obscene character) was critically examined by the witness, and he found that the writing on it and that on the postal card, which the defense had admitted as the prisoner's writing were alike. The general ap-pearance of the writing on both was about the same, and he had no doubt they were written by the same person.

James D. Craig, an expert bookkeeper, who is now examining the books in the first auditor's office, in connection with the irregularities there, was sworn. The letters previously produced were shown to him, produced were shown to him, and he said the writing was the same on them as on the postal admitted as written by the prisoner. The writing was not identical, but the name of "Cluverius" was unmistakably the same, although there was a little variation in the gentral experence caused possibly by the condieral appearance, caused possibly by the condi-tion of the mind, the poetry evidently having been copied. He had never read the paper through. It was a vile and vulgar composi-tion. He did not claim to be an expert, but tion. He did not claim to be an early be did claim to be a pretty good judge of

The cross examination of the witness was A. B. Cawthorn, of King and Queen's county, testified that he knew the prisoner. She knew Lillian Madison, who was a teacher at the school on witness' farm. The deceased came there on the 16th of October and remained till the 12th of March. Then she left. The witness was familiar with the clothing of the deceased. She minutely described the red crochet shawl, and hat and veil worn by Miss Madison, and positively identified the three articles shown her. When Miss Madison left witness's house in March, she carried a bag made of brown canvas, which witness said she had made herself. Various other articles of clothing, including a pair of Woolen mittens, a blue Jersey and dresses, were described by the witness and fully identified when shown to her, as was also a canvas bag. On the 10th of March the deceased received a letter, which witness saw before it was given to Lillian. The trunk of the deceased was left locked at the witness's house, and so remained til sent to Richmond. The witness saw the direction on the envelope of the letter received by Lillian on the 10th of March. The envelope was white. The witness thought she had seen the same handwriting before on letters received by Lillian. A number of envelopes ware here shown to the witness, who said the handwriting on them was very much like that on the letter of the 10th of March. Seen after the last mentioned letter was received, Lillian came to the witness with the letter in her hand, and handed it to her, and she read part of it. The witness could identify the letter. It was handed to her, and after reseding it, she said it was the same letter. It was on account of this letter that Lillian had left the witness' this letter that Lillian had left the witness' home to go to Richmond.

The defence took exception generally to the question. At this point Mr. Meredith, of the prosecution, stated to the court that it was evident that the trial as now going on courd not be concluded by the end of the term of the court, and suggested the holding of two sessions a day.

After some discussion it was decided that hereafter the court will meet at 9 a. m., take a recess from 2 to 4 p. m., and adjourn at dark. At 4 p. m. the court adjourned until

THE TEXAN CONVICTS.

A Party of Desperadoes Riding Over West-

A Party of Desperadoes Riding Over Western Texas,

Buenham, Tex., May 18.—The latest advices from Clay's plantation, the scene of the wholesale escape of convicts, is to the effect that quite a number have been captured, while others have surrendered. From these it is learned that the escape was not a premeditated affair upon the part of the convicts, and that two strangers, who instigated and aided in the escape of the convicts, brought with them at least twenty revolvers and twelve Winchester rifles. The returned convicts state that it is the determination of those still at large not to be captured, and that it victs state that it is the determination of those still at large not to be captured, and that it will be folly for the officers to attempt their arrest without long-range guns, unless they can get them cornered. A gang of twenty or more convicts at large were, at last accounts, heading for western Texas, and are changing their convict clothing at every opportunity. When the convicts left the plantation, they carried with them six good shotens and five revolvers, and those not mounted on nules and horses belonging to the plantation took horses, mules and arms from the ion took horses, mules and arms from the farmers as they retreated from Brazos river. A large number of the escaped convicts at large are criminals from western Texas, and they are desperate men, and will fight to the last before they will surrender. The country through which they are passing is thoroughly aroused, and news of a bloody conflict with the outlaws is almost hourly anticipated.

ervatives Again Attack the Government on the Abandorment of the Soudan-Rupture Between England and Spain-The Af-ghan Quarrel-Other News, London, May 18 .- It is authoritatively stated to night that Russia demands Marduchak and Zeulfikar, the possession of which points the ameer considers vital to the integrity of the Afghan frontier.

In the house of lords this evening Baron Wemyss vigorously denounced the government for their policy in the Soudan. He said that every man slain in the Soudan was as much slain by the gov. ernment through their inconsistency and uncertainty as if done to death by their own hands. The only memorial England would leave in the Soudan waould be an abandoned railway and bleaching skeletons.

Earl Granville replied that the policy of withdrawal was justified. He could agree with Baron Wemyss on only one point, name-ly: The splendid conduct of the British troops troops.

The house of commons this evening entered into committee of supply, on the account of the vote of credit. Lord Randolph Churchill moved a reduction of two millions for the pur-pose of calling attention to Saturday's blue book on the Pendjeh incident. He said that the indignation aroused by the perusal of the dispatches was not confined to the tory party, but was shared by the country at large, and even by the liberal newspapers. Lord Ran-dolph maintained that Giers had said nothing to justify Gladstone's statement in parliament that it had been agreed that no tur-ther savance should be made on either side. He declared that Gladstone's statement of March 13th was a fiction and a phantom, without the smallest justification. After some further discussion Lord Randolph asked leave to withdraw the motion. Mr. Biggar insisted upon a division of the motion, which was rejected by a vote of 74 to Telegraph Facilities in England: London, May 18.—Extensive preparations are being made in the postoffice department to meet the increased traffic expected from the adoption of the six-penny rate tor telegrams. tainment of more than ordinary merit was given to-night in the chapel of the Columbia female college. The room was uncomfortably crowded, and many could not get seats The proceeds, which are tolerably large, will go towards building an inclosure for the Jew's burying ground in this city. The programme was an excellent one, and it was gone through conscientiously, several of the participants making notable hits. The principal feature was the debut of two musical prodigies—the Visauska children. One, a girl, is just turned seven years, who plays wondrously on the piano; the other, a boy, scarcely ten, who performs skillfully on the violin. They were given a warm reception. Their performances filled with amazement all who heard them. Miss Lit Pearce, one of our most charming readers, gave several exquisite selections, and Miss May Sawyer, the beautiful and winsome singer, gave several songs with be witching grace and sweetness. Pro-fessor Koepper contributed his valuable services, and Miss Ida Hendrix, our most brilliant planist, rendered important aid. Several others took part and acquitted themselves with credit. The Columbia Postoffice,

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 18 .- [Special.]-The contest over the postmastership of Columbia still is the theme of discussion here. Major Wade Hampton Gibbes and Major John S. Leapheart are the only two aspirants for the position. No third party has put in a claim. The matter is in an ex-Hampton at his back; Leaphart has Congressman supporters. Each has a petition long and respectable. Both are excellent business men. It appears, however, that the great mass of people prefer Leaphart to Gibbes. The amount of acrimonious discussion which the question has elicited seems wholly disproportionate to its importance, but a momentous issue is involved, and perhaps it is well to settle it now. VILLA RICA, Ga., May 18. -[Special.]-The man, Jerry Sailors, who was arrested near Rome a few days ago, is thought to be the man that was last seen with Frank Wylds on the night of November 24th, 1884. On the day mentioned, Sailors run some liquor into town and sold it for fresh cide and made almost every man drunk that drank it. About ten o'clock in the morning the mayor went to him and ordered him to stop selling the stuff, and afterwards the marwent to him and threatened to:put him in the calaboose before he would quit selling the stuff. Among the number that become intoxicated was young Wylds, and that night the two started home and stopped on the Georgia Pacific track and as the cast bound freight due here at 8 o'clock was backing out of the sidling, Wylds was found dead, but the west bound train had passed over him, and it is not known how he came to his death. Sailor first came here in 1882 from Atlanta and soon after married Miss Georgia Wylds, a siste of the young man that was killed. She is stil living here, and is very much surprised to learn from the papers that Sailor has married again. A curious old customer hobbled into town on Saturday last and poked his antedeluvian phiz saturasy last and posted his antecletivian pair into our sanctum door. In appearance he very much resembled the pictures we see of Rip Van Winkle. He had the same long, white beard, his garments were torn and he leaned upon a staff similar to Rip's. Altogether he was the most antiquated looking person we ever saw. He claimed to have been in the confederate army and stated that he had been ever saw. He claimed to have been in the confederate army and stated that he had been a prisoner at Rock Island. He said he was on his way home from the war, but inquiry failed to clicit any information in regard to the locality of his domicile. He refused to give any name except "John H" and spent the few dimes given him by charitable persons for whisky. He may be on his way home—we hope he is but we have an idea that he will not find it 'till he "crosses over the river." not find it 'till he "crosses over the river."

The barbecue season seems to be in full blast throughout the state.

At Louisville, Jefferson county, the case of the state against James B. Newton, one of the parties charged with the Cornwell murder, was called and continued. Judge Carswell had set that day for this case, and determined to push it to trial if possible. But the defendant was absent, and that ompletely stopped the case. sunday-school picnic ice cream doesn't agree with the people of Atlanta. More than a hundred people from that city were made sick at Tellulan islis by eating ice cream. The cream was put into the freezer before leaving Atlanta, and frozen sfter reaching the falls. Although there was much suffering by those who partons of the cream, it is thought that all will recover. The worst of after reaching the falls. Although there was much suffering by those who partoos of the cream, it is thought that all will recover. The moral of this may be read with profit by those who may hereafter go off on excursions, with ice cream attachments. But the fee cream attachment is not essential to a happy, enjoyable picnic. See how matters are arranged over in Raudolph, as we gather from our Cuthbert contemporary, so as to keep cool at picnics without the precious aid of frozen cream: "We had the pleasure to attend the Ward Sabbath school picnic at Crittenden's mill on last Friday. It was a very nice affair in deed. There was a good crowd, yet not immense. The boys stepped lightly under the speckled straw hats, and the girls were beautifully attired in transparent suits." Yes, we should say it was nice indeed! So cool, health giving, refreshing! We can but think how much better straw hats and "transparent suits" are to put young people in the way of having a good, cool, charming picnic time than beaver hats and heavy, opaque garments, within which are ladded masses of frozen and precarious compounds. It may not be the style about Atlanta and the mountains, but(comfort and airluess are a long way ahead of style, with reasonable people, on any sultry picnic occasion. If the Atlanta prople fail to learn anything from the contrast—which evidently is to their disadvantage—then we shall give them over as incorrigibles:

improving. Richard Swann, colored, while trying to board a freight train in Fairburn Saturday was thrown under the train. One arm was cut off and one leg was badly mashed. There is very little hope of his recovery.

Dr. Green Connel, of Maxey's, Green county, had a cow die just after the war. A post mortem ex-amination was held, and on close inspection seven and a half pounds of old iron was found in her stomach, consisting of twenty-nine twenty-penny nails and a large quantity of bolts and taps.

The grand jury of Habersham county say: We find that the county safe was robbed about Jan ary 19 last, and we are thereby confined to such records as was left and to reports of county officers.

Robert N. Groves, ex-ordinary, reports the taxable property of the county as $1,000,045.71. He fails to report the indebtedness of the county, but levies a tax of 7-10 of 1 per cent for county purposes, and 71/2-10 of 1 per cent for special tax for new jail, which sho have raised for county purposes $7,031.99, and for the erection of the jail $7,584.28. He reports a cost of jail $7,857. Amounts collected on special tax $2,600, and executions issued against collect for $5 251. Amounts collected on general tax $3, 031.99; balance due, and executions issued, for $4. 000. He also reports thirty paupers drawing from $30 to $50 per annum.

Albany News: On Friday night, while Mr. Charles Phillips, who works on Mr. A. W. Tucker's place in Lee county, was away from home, a negro boy named Will Franklin concluded that he would make a raid on the house and lay in a supply of provisions. The house being locked, he couldn't get in without breaking open the door and making more fuss than would have been prudent. But a happy thought struck the hungry darkey. He wanted "vittles," and knew he could get them if he could only manage to enter the house. He thought of the chimucy and acted upon the happy thought at once by climbing to the roof and thence down the sooty walls into the quiet domicile. He found 'vittles' enough to satisfy the crayings of his appetite, and as soon as he had done this, negro like, he wanted to go to sleep. And right into the arms of Morpheus he went, without a thought of his smutty clothes, on the bed of Mr. Phillips. Before lying dowa, however, he had tried to ascend the chimney and get out of the house, but failed. Yesterday morning Mr. Hays, the superintendent on the 'place, heard a suspicious noise in Mr. Phillip's house, and, upon unlocking and opening the door, found the self-imprisoned negro. The latter, being pretty badly scared, "Owned up" everything, and was allowed to go.

The Albany News also says:

We were shown, on yesterday, a genuine centipede, three or four inches long. It was found down on Mr. T. H. Willingham's farm, in the lower part of this county, by Mr. G. R. Adams, who brought it to the city as a curiosity. Although its head was cut off when found Friday Atternoon, it was still alive and able to do more than its share of the stinging when we saw it yesterday morning. It was a villainous looking worm, and we are not glad to learn that this section of the country suits it. The specimen will be preserved in alcohol.

MISS FANNIE RANDALL

Action of the Board of Trustees of the Geor-gia Baptist Seminary for Young Ladies. Whereas, undue prominence has been given to the recent action of Miss Fannie Randall, in leaving the seminary, and fearing lest the action of President Wilkes should be misunderstood, be it known that we as trustees and patrons believe Dr. Wilkes only acted as any other teacher would have done under similar circumstances; and is therefore free from blame or censure. The undersigned senior class having been in this college for several years, and some of us boarders in the family of our president, Dr. W. C. Wilkes, feel that we know him and understand his management better than any outsider can. He is very kind to his pupils, was very kind to Miss Fannie Randall. No one regrets more than he does the manner in which she left the seminary. We believe he tried to do his duty in this matter and is free from blame. He has our confidence and high esteem.

MACON, Ga., May 18.-[Special.]-A boiler explosion occurred at mill No. 2 of manufacturing company, at twenty five after five o'clock this morning Austin colored, the engineer, was almost instant and Wesley Johnson and William Lester, firemen, were both seriously injured. The sustained by the buildings was very great.

The cause of the explosion, as is usual cases, is difficult to determine, but it is g agreed by these familiar with the boilers the boiler was weak. It was of steel, but in use for a number of years, and it is eve mated had been condemned by Forema of A. B. Farquhar & Co.'s from works.

MACON, Ga., May 18 .- [Special.]-A disastrous boiler explosion occurred at mill No. 2 of the Bibb manufacturing company, at twenty five minutes after five o'clock this morning Austin Gibson. colored, the engineer, was almost instantly killed, and Wesley Johnson and William Lester, colored firemen, were both seriously injured. The damage sustained by the buildings was very great.

The cruse of the explosion, as is usual in such cases, is difficult to determine, but it is generally agreed by these familiar with the boilerroom, that the boiler was weak. It was of steel, but had been in use for a number of years, and it is even int mated had been condemned by Foreman Wilks. of A. B. Farquhar & Co.'s iron works.

Mill No. 2 is on Oglethorpe street, at the head of First street. It is the oldest cotton factory in the city. The boiler room, engine room, pump room, and machine shop are situated at the southern extremity of the main building. The battery con-gisted of five boilers, three of which were seed and two of iron. It was the middle boiler that explo-

At the time the explosion occurred, the operatives were in their places, ready for the machinery to be started. Down in the engine room, Gibson, the engineer, had hold of the lever, just ready to turn on the steam. Johnson was in the boiler room putting on his shoes, and Leste was standing just inside the rear door of the same room. At the instant Gibson moved the lever It is supposed the middle boiler gave way in front above the water mark, thus allowing the steam from the other boiler to concentrate in it. The front, a piece of steel weighing more than a thous and pounds, was blown through the roof entirely over the building, and fell in First street, two bundred and fifty feet away. The boiler was lifted up and hurled forward, crashing through three brick walls, wrecking the engine and completely destroying the pump house and the machinery it contained. After doing its dreadful work of devastation, the boiler fell lengthwise near the rear wall of the main building seventy-seven feet from its original position in the boiler room. The scene in the boiler room is indescribable. The boilers were tumbled about in all directions, the walls were demolished, and the roof was literally blown into splinters. The machine shop was also hadly wrecked, much of the valuable machinery being injured beyond repair. Bricks and other debris were thrown in twenty.

different directions, and some of the shafting in the main building was injured. Austin Gibson had his skull crushed and his right arm injured. When found he was lying ia a corner of the engine room, still breathing, but he died immediately after he was taken Wesley Johnson had his skull fractured, and sustained numerous bad bruises. William top of the coal piles, fifty feet from the building. He was badly bruised. It is thought that John son and Lester will recover. John Kent, a white operative at the Macon knitting factory, which is just below mill No. 2, was hurt on the right foot The explosion came near causing a frightfu panic among the operatives. When it occurred men, women and children in the upper story of the mill rushed frantically to the stairways, blindly or deavoring to escape. Overseer of Spinning J. A. Morse saw that lives would be lost un less something was done to quell the panic, and ance and forced the wild crowd back from the stairways. This being done, the operatives were

COLUMBUS YESTERDAY

Columbus, Ga., May 18.—[Special.] - A deeply interested throng surged and crowded around the bulletin board this evening, eagerly scanning the same as the score of the game between Atlanta and Columbus came over the wires, and the result though somewhat disappointing, was softened by the fact that it was a hard earned victory to the Atlantas, and by no means a walk-over. Columbus expects, as is not at all improbable, a reversal in their favor to morrow.

Mr. Charles A. Redd, Jr., residing on Rose Hil met with quite a bad accident this evening while playing ball at home. In running to pick up the ball, which had fallen near a flying jenny, in motion his hat being rulled down over his eyes, his head came n contact with one of the protruding beams of the jenny, cutting two long gashes on the scalp laying it open to the bone. The wounds, though very painful, are not at all dangerous.

Violet Jackson, colored, who killed Louis Bell accidentally, as she claims, with a musket Saturday night, was arrested to-day under a warrant sworm out by the slain man's uncle, Gabriel Shepherd, charging her with murder, and ledged in jail. London Correspondence New York Tribune.

Lord Coleridge has made public an interesting bit of history about the late Mr. Benjamin. In his address of Monday in the house of lords upon Earl Cairns, he related how he had proposed to him when lord chancellor, the appointment of Mr. Benjamin to the bench. Mr. Benjamin, says Lord Coleridge, "was a man whom I was anxious to have seen among the judges of England, and who to my knowledge would have felt himself honored by being placed among them." Lord Cains, however, refused to consider his claims. We are not told why, nor why Lord Coleridge, having disclosed so much, should have kept back this critical part of the story. All he says is that Lord Cairne's grounds were urgent and foreble, and such as most men would have held to be conclusive. The lord chancellor's personal wishes were with Mr. Benjamin. It is just conceivable that either he or Lord Beaconsfield may have thought the nomination of a confederate secretary of the treasury not likely to be acceptable to the American government or the American people. Those were long before the days when we expected to see a departmental flag in Weshington at half mast in honor of a dead confederate minister. Be that as it may, I can only say once more that Mr. Benjamin used to be thought of here as an American, and as one whose extraordinary power did signal honor to his country. by being placed among them." THE AMAZONS.

A GERMAN EXPLORER IN THE KINGDOM OF DAHOMBY.

How the Female Soldiers Dress and Act-Their Mili tary Evolutions-A Weird Scene at a Night Re-ception-The Women Never Fight-Other Notes of Travel.

From the Pall Mall Gazette.

The Germans, to whom Africa as a field of colonization is a mine of inexhaustible novelty, has just rediscovered the amazons of Dahomey. These famous warriors, of whom so little has been heard for so many years, have been inspected by Dr. Zoller, who is acting as special correspondent of the Kolnische Zeitung, and gives an account of his reception at the court of the Portuguese half-breed Juliano de Sonza, who in his semi-royal state at Whydah rejoices in the possession of a fully equipped battalion of women who fight. Alas! however, for our preconceived notions, the smazons of de Sonza have more resemblance to a corps de ballet than to a corps d'armee, and the deepest impression which they left on the mind of their visitors was that they would make the fortune of any enterprising impreseario who would introduce them to European audiences. Of Juliano de Sozza himself, who has had his son educated in an English boarding school, and married by a French priest, Dr. Zoller speaks in high by a French priest, Dr. Zolfer speaks in high terms. He says:

"The tall, broad-chested man, with a dark yellow, almost brown, complexion, received us with the amiable politeness of a pompous aristocrat. He wore a long, shirt-like, cotton garment reaching down to his feet, high European boots, and embroidered smoking cap, and—slithingh he is a tatich worship or a long term. and-although he is a fetich worshipper a big black metal cross on his chest." After apologizing for the remarkable costume which he had been the remarkable costume which he had been obliged to don because of indisposition, Juliano gave the sign for the beginning of the festivities. The stage for these was the open space in front of Juliano's house, a rather rickety building of two stories in the middle of the village, which was filled with the upper ten of Whydah, a multitude of black spectators, all of whom pretend to be of European descent. But were to him who, without being a scent. But woe to him who, without being "white man," dares to wear European boots or allow himself to be carried in a ham mock, the European means of convey-since. Not even his majesty the king would ever dream of commit-ting to unpardonable a breach of African etiquette. When it was dusk the army of amazons made their entrance into the fautastically attired, and looking more fa tical still by the glare of the torches which were borne before them. This is how Di Zoller describes the scene: Shortly before their dance commenced the "Chacha" dis-tributed German beer and Babia rum among the audience, which consisted of some fiv hundred spectators, many of whom were ac companied by their tame sheep, which fol low their masters like dogs. Rum is the ordinary beverage offered to visitors in Dahomey. The amazons of Abome, of whom there are at the most some 6,000, are noninally the wives of the king, and as such form a body guard which is said to be superior t the male soldiers in courage, discipline loyalty. But although these amazons ac pany the king on all his wars, I think they are more for show than for service. Among Il the savage and semi-savage tribes singing and dancing are considered as essential a drilling and drumming among ourselves. It is natural that the amazons, having from their is natural that the amazons, having from their carliest childhood been educated as warriors, deners, and singers, should be as superior to male soldiers in these accomplishments as our guards are to the reserves. The smazons of the "Chaeba," all of whom have served in the army of Abenne; are women between the ages of eighten and twenty-five, and as the "Chaeba," does not so to wer they are naturally cha" does not go to war they are naturally only kept for show. They have no separate barracks, but live, like the thirty male soldiers, in different quarters of the town, where they are called together whenever they are wented. At their first entrance, when, marching up in a long procession, they sa-luted their lord and master, I was astonished at the military exactitude of their movements.

In agine 60 young women, strong and slender, who, without losing snything of their womanliness, present a decidedly warlike appearance. Among Europeans this combination of the woman and the warrior could not be imagined; here it is explained by the peculiar formation of the negro skeleton. The skeletons of negro women (in striking contrast to those of the mulattoes) are strikingly like the skeletons of male negroes. The assertion is untrue that the female warriors of Dahomey that the female warriors of Danomey have their breasts cut off, like the mythological amazons of the ancient Greeks. The picturesque uniforms might furnish our masters of the ballet with fresh ideas. The fresh young faces look roguishly from under the white, himless volva can encounted with black primless yokey cap, ornamented with black pictures of animals, such as lizards, birds, and others. The feet are bare; short knicker-bockers of green, red, or yellow material come down nearly to the knees, and a bright colored tunic of striped silk or velvet, which eaves only the neck and the arms free, covers the upper part of the body, which is sup-ported by corsets of native manufacture. A broad belt of many colors heightens the slim appearance of the female warrior. At the left side of the belt

a short sword is fastened and a small cartridge pocket in front. A scarf of white or light green silk is worn like a Scotch plaid. The arma-ment consists of swords, battle axes, and guns, which latter are put aside during the dance. Quite apart from the effect of combined dan-cing and singing the performances, which went for several hours uninterruptedly before our eyes, were quite in the style of our corps de ballet, with the only difference that per-haps no other corps de ballet would dance with equal exactitude. First came a tall and somewhat elderly wo-man. She was the captain, and as she en-tered the sen of the Chacha whispered to me, "Just look how well my mother dances."

Then followed, with battle axes uplifted, the younger officers, and in their rear the still younger troops, now dashing toward us in their sham fight, now wheeling round, dispersing, and again uniting. And all this with rythmical movements, half warlike, half coquettish, but never clumsy, the elegant new of the beer cound some recalling to the play of the bare round arms recalling to the mind the limbs of ancient classical statues. All dances which I have seen performed among savage and demi-savage people have been grotesque and, to a certain degree, voluptuous! Here for the first time a performance was given which would have held its own before a serious critical and mathele. own before a serious critique and austhete. Contemplating this remarkable feat, and listening to the strange rhythm of the songs of the amszons, who, even after a performance of several hours, showed no sign of fatigue, the delighted Germens spent the evening, and next morning were invited to a similar dance, performed by twelve young ladies of the agof sixteen and seventeen, all, all, all of whom the Chacha introduced as his wives. Their performance, however, was inferior to that witnessed the night before. The three days' festivities, all more or less of the same kind.

were concluded by the Chacha presenting a bull to Dr. Zoller. Cotton goods....... Boots and shoes.... Sugar and molass Public education..

A Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

We must have a grand building as a home for our Young Mens' Christian association. This is a necessity for religious Atlanta; it is a necessity for business Atlanta; it is a necessity for moral Atlanta.

The amazing strength, vigor and earnest ness of the work of this association as developed in the late convention has awakened this city as we have never seen it awakened before. It has appealed notionly to the religious sentiment, but to the heart of our community-not only to the heart, but to the common sense of the people. It has aroused and quickened not only the Christisn folks, but the business men. Every man, woman and child who witnessed their wonderful meetings, was the better for what he had seen, the wiser and the tenderer. Those who were never touched before yielded to the infiather of this grand demonstration of what hearty, practical common sense can do in religious work. The heart and brain of Atlanta is touched as we do not remember to have seen it touched before. It will be unwise if we let this awakening pass away without practical results. The best result it can give is a grand building for the association in Atlanta. There is but one such building in the south-at Marion, Alabama. Let Atlanta take the lead in this admirable Christian work as she has taken the lead in commercial and industrial enterprise. Let her put up a building here of which we shall all be proud, of which Georgia and the south shall be proud.

We could do it. We must do it. We will do it. We must do it at once. There is no time to lose. This is but the first suggestion of the matter. It will be followed up closely until $60,000 has been raised and the building is assured. We have ten churches in Atlanta worth an average of $60,000 each. Here is a cause broader than any creed, embracing all creeds, that appeals for but one building. That building it must have. So let us get ready and start the work in earnest.

PARTIZANSHIP AND THE POSTOFFICES. In states that contain no large cities most f the changes in office that can be made under the tenure-of-office act, have been made, except in the postal branch of the public service. Very few postmasters have been removed, and very few have, therefore, been appointed. No one can justly accuse the administration of undue haste in securing political power; for it is a well known fact that the postmasters-the small ones even more than the great ones-constitute the most effective political machine known to our polities. Of course the administration has no intention of letting such machinery remain in the hands of the opposition. No one expects the democratic party, or any party in power, to favor its enemies, and no one would sneer at such a suicidal course soone: than the republicans themselves. They know full well the weight and strength of the postoffices. But while the postoffices will, as a matter of course, be handed over to democrats, yet time and certain formalities are involved, and it is of these we desire to speak. As to the presidential postoffices, it seems to be settled that the president will make no removal before a term expires, unless the postmaster is incapable, or has been guilty of improper conduct, or has been in office an offensive partizan. Practically in nine cases out of ten resort must be had to offensive partizanship; and we have in the case of the suspended Chicago postmaster evidence as to what constitutes offensive partizanship. Mr. and ment carpenter to build in front of the postoffice a platform for republican speakers; with allowing republican committees to assess his clerks; with requiring those clerks to turn out and swell the ranks in republican processions, closing the postoffice deliveries for that purpose; with transferring them to Ohio to work up republican sentiment in that state, and with divers other political tricks to the same purport and for the same and Mr. Judd, a democrat, is now Chicago's postmester. It is easy to judge from the acre charged upon Mr. Palmer what acts of like nature would be "offensive" in the eyes of the president. In a word, any act of a post master that interferes with the rights of the private citizen, or that lowers the standard of the public service, would be good, ground for removal from office.

In the Chicago case the republi can papers claim that one partizan was remo ced to make room for another partizan, quite, overlooking the fact that one was "offer sive" in office and the other as an individue 1. The former course is condemned by the administration; and if Mr. Judd, who had a right to treat the republicans in his individual capacity as he deemed best, should display offensive parti zanship in office-should be guilty of any of the acts, for example, committed by his predecessor-he would deserve and probably would get a treatment of a very similar nature, for there is nothing clearer than the fact that the president intends to divorce the public service and politics, and to give the country better officials than it has had in many years.

Postmaster-General Vilas in his now famous circular defines what constitutes offensive partizanship in fourth-class postmasters. Such postmasters have no fixed terms and are removable therefore at the will of the postmaster-general. But Mr. Vilas does not propose to remove a fourth-class postmaster without a cause. He desires to remove at once the most obnoxious and offensive partisans in each county to the number of a sixth to a quarter of all, and in these first cases be will require no more proof of partisanship than "the affirmation of knowledge on the part of a representative or senator that the postmaster has been an active editor or proprietor of a republican newspaper, printing offensive articles, easily shown by slips, or a stump speaker, or a member of a political committee, or officer of a campaign club, or organizer of political meetirgs, or that his office has been made the headquarters of political work, or that his clerks have been put into the performance of political duties." Mr. Vilas suggestively adds that possibly "other ac's of equal force' may be noted in some cases. As a rule the charges of offensive partisanship in the cases of fourth-class postmasters are to pass through the hands of the member of congress in whose district the postoffice is located. Mr. Vilas's circular is very distressing to the organs, but there is really nothing in it that gives offense to any fair minded man. Our mugwump friends see nothing objectionable in it. When analyzed t amounts to this: obnoxious and offensive partizans are to bo disp'aced, and the steps to be taken are very naturally explained; the nature of the offense is first defined, and the manner of bringing a case before the depart ment is then stated. That is all. The postmaster general very properly relies in such cases upon the officers of the government who are most apt to be acquainted with the parties and the facts of the case-upon the members of congress. He has no reason to regret the fact that his circular was given to the public, and the people will rejoice that capable and upright men are to be substituted as rapidly as possible for obnoxious and offensive partizans.

INOCULATING AGAINST CHOLERA. The germ theory of disease has been carried by Pasteur and Koch from theory to practice; and Koch's discovery of the cholera bacillus bids fair to rival in importance and value to the human race Dr. Jenner's discovery of vaccination. The great German professor carried his investigations and ex. periments forward until he demonstrated beyond reasonable doubt that a weakened cholera virus would cause in manking mild choleraic symptoms which would pass off in forty-eight hours, leaving the patient proof against virus of full strength and therefore of the disease itself. The experiments were first tested in animals and the success that attended to them led to their reproduction in men, and the success in both cases was unqualified and absolute. The new p'an of prevention has within the past few weeks been largely applied in Valencia and in other threatened districts of Spain, and now we are told that the disease is dying out in that country because the attenuated virus has left no material for it to feed upon. The "comma bacillus" of Professor Koc'i has done, it is asserted, the work in Spain. It was not cleanliness, nor cordons of police. but a general course of inoculation with weakened cholera virus. The essential principle is of course similar to that applied by Jenner in the case of small pox, and by Pas teur in cases of fever in cattle. The attenuated cholera virus takes hold, however, at once, producing tremors and prostration during the first twenty-four hours, but at the end of forty-eight hours the patient is both well and cholera proof. If the evidence from Spain is not overstated, cholera has met its master in the German professor, and is no longer to be considered the great scourge of the earth.

"HOW TO PROGRESS"

We printed the other day an extract from the Augusta Chronicle giving the reasons why Atlanta had made such remarkable progress during the last few years. This extract was very interesting, for the reasons that the Chronicle gave were intended to be in the nature of an apology for the apparent shortcomings of Augusta in this respect. A very high tribute was paid to the climate of Atlanta-to the tonic properties of Atlanta air -and it was suggested that if Augusta possessed these desirable elements the result would be activity instead of inertia. THE CONSTITUTION had intended to make some comments on the interesting statements of the Chronicle, but the matter was deferred. It was deferred too long; for, in a later issue of our centemporary, we find some of the suggestions which it was our purpose to make in regard to the climatic conditions and position which the Chronicle seemed to consider so important. It was our purpose to show that there was something more in Atlanta's progress and development than climate and position, and the results of these; but all this is freely admitted by the Chronicle in a second and more elaborate article entitled "How to Progress." Our Augustan contemporary takes as its text some remarks of the Columbus Enquirer to the effect that Columbus owes its success entirely to the co-operation and enterpris of its individual citizenship. The Chrenicle general purpose. Mr. Palmer was suspended, I endorses this, but is still disposed to believe that the "manifest natural benefactions of Atlenta are the stimulating factors of her very existence." Undoubtedly our Augustan contemporary lays too much stress on these natural adventages and too little on the system of co-operative citizenship alluded to by the Columbus Enquirer.

Certainly the natural advantages of Atanta are very great, but they are not greater than those of other communities we could name that are far behind Atlanta in progress and development. The secret of progress-s very open secret, too-is the utilization of natural advantages and the development of advantages that may be termed artificial. The position of Atlanta is simply what its people have made it. It has a fine climate and a tonic atmosphere, but these things will not account for the aggressive enterprise and energy of its citizens, Co-operation has been the rule from the start. The only serious discussion one is likely to hear among our people is in regard to the question, what is best for Atlanta? That point once settled, the whole community moves as one man until the movement is made successful.

In fine, there is not an element in Atlanta's progress that cannot be traced to the energy and enterprise of Atlanta's citizensnot a feature of its development that is not the result of the active co-operation of its people.

SOUTHERN AND NORTHERN NEGROSS A correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce discusses "the colored man at the south and at the north" with exceptional ntelligence and fairness. Among the southern negroes he says that he found a barbaric element. This element has been modified. but the modification complicated the race problem. After the teacher or missionary reaches a certain point in his work of civilizing the negross he is appalled at the discovery of the underlying barbarism. Among these people religion and imnorality are not considered inconsistent. Religion with the negroes is simply emotional. Christianity is only nominal; the substance does not exist, and the form of worship produces no more effect upon character than fetichism. The men and women who are most enthusiastic at the prayermeetings lead openly immoral lives. This condition is barbaric.

Such a state of things this correspondent claims to have found all along the lines of travel in the south. In his judgment no improvement will result from sending northern teachers and preachers to this semi-barbarous people. The southern whites understand the situation, and know how to go to work in the right direction. In their hands money for the education of the negroes will be rightly and wisely applied. In any other hands it will be wasted.

But while there is a vociferous clamor for the elevation of the southern negro, this observant traveler has remarked that the northern negro has been left to sink or swim. The northern negroes are increasing every year, but nobody thinks of doing anything for them. If they worship in a shabby church or stagger under a load of dabt they are left to work out of their trouble without assistance. They are neglected and despised. They are not treated any more kindly by northern men than negroes south are treated by southern men. If the philanthropists of the north really care for the negro why not begin their work of charity at home They spend millions to elevate and educate the southern negro; why not spend a little on the negro in their midst? In conclusion this non-partisan and non-sectional observer k after the vast and increasing colored on after the vast and mercasing corred populor of the north. It would be about as sensit rule southern people to send southern missicies up to the northern blacks and neglect the population, as it is for us to spend our tid words in talking about the status of the new the south while we have a text in the head. und words in taking about the status of the near in the south while we pay no attention to his lo-position in the north. The problem is norther is well as southern. The subject is vast and deep thave but touched here and there the surface and this letter is already long.

It will be seen that the Journal of Commerce correspondent does not pretend to solve the race problem. He admits that it s "vast and deep." He says the result is 'beyond the power of prophecy." There is encouragement in this. When sensible travelers who are neither bohemians nor offensive partisans talk in this manner i causes patriotic people to observe closely and think profoundly. Out of this observation and thought may come the solution of the race problem.

According to Miss Emily Faithfull, a lady nown in fashionable London society as the Hon. Mrs. Moberly, carries on and personally manager an extensive dairy. She has been known to cail on a customer and make a bargain like any ordinary milkman. This did not make the Hon. Mrs. Moberly lose caste in the aristocratic circle to which she belonged. Many of the social usages of a generation ago have been revolution in England, and it is now generally conceded self-support that an honorable thing for a woman. The Anglo maniacs of this country will do well to rrow sensible English ideas along with fashions that are neither useful nor ornamental. In this country as well as England the number of women is increasing who have the need and the impulse for self support. Women cannot all be writers of books, teachers and artists. They must branch out in other occupations where there is a demand for their services. occupa If they display the independence of the Hon. Mrs. Moberly they should be entitled to as much respect here as that aristocratic lady received in her circle. Give the women a chance.

It is a notable fact that the majority of literary men when called upon for advice by young wriers respond with the emphatic word "don't." They never advise bright and promising men and romen to follow in their footsteps. To all who think of plunging into literature they kindly say don't." The late T. S. Arthur wrote to a discouraged young western journalist in a more stisfactory way. He advised him if he could not get the work he desired to ake any work rather than be idle. . In the meanime the literary aspirant could polish his style nd add to his store of knowledge. The veteran author then related his own experience. When he went to Philadelphia with a wife and three chiliren he accepted a clerkship at ten dollars a week, and did his writing at night and early in the merning. Three evenings in the week he attended lectures and reported them at two dollars a lec-ture. Work and thought gave him endarance nd skill. When he reached a point where his pen supported him he still tained a business position as a stand by; It was Mr. Arthur's belief that the American litrary man should have something to depend upon besides literature. The young people who rite to the "Knowledge Box" of this paper, askng for information as to the best market for their tories and poems, will do well to bear this in mind. Let them resolve to make some good projession, business or trade their main occupation. Their literary work may come in as an extra purish. It is too uncertain a thing to be dependd upon entirely.

The pelace is capitally situated for hunting and salmon fishing and has extensive stables and kennels. It is explained that the new bishop of Meath will not be able to keep up such an establishment, and that the pelace will soon be for sale.

| ROBERT GARRETT, now filling the place of his father, the railroad magnate, is said to be his father, the railroad magnate, is said to be equal to the place. He has, his friends say, personal magnetism which his father lacked, and he is able to allow others to do some of his work for him. He is a far-seeing business man, and has great speculative ability. Meeting of the International Committee in Atlanta Yesterday-Great Plans for Future Work-atlanta Stirred to I's Depths-Sketches of Some of the Prominent Members.

A profound impression was created in Atlanta by the international convention of the Young Men's Christian association, which adjourned Sunday night. It is the talk of the city. All the meetings were largely attended, and some of them were remarkable for the deep interest manifested in them by the young men of Atlanta. Yesterday many of the delegates returned to their homes in various parts of this country and Canada. Quite a number went to New Orleans to attend the exposition, and a large party left in the afternoon to visit the Mammoth cave. Some of the most prominent members of the late convention are still in Atlanta, and will remain here several days to map out plans for the general work of the association and to assist the loca association in the effort to secure the means for a building in Atlanta. Yesterday

THE INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE held a session at the Kimball house for the pur pose of consultation as to the spread of the work; and to consider routine business.

The organization of the association is remarkably complete. It has various departments with distinct work, and yet they all work together beautifully.

After their session yesterday the committee called in a body on Governor McDaniel, and were heartily received. They then paid a visit to THE Constitution office, where they sang some of those beautiful hymns, which were heard withpleasure by thousands of people last week. The in ternational committee is compased of experienced and able workers who understand how to push this work. To their zeal and capacity is due much of the brilliant success of the past few days. Mr. Cephas Brainerd, chairman of the internation al committee, is a prominent lawyer of New York city, one whose name has figured in some of the most important cases before the New York courts, and who practices largely in the United States supreme court. He is a man in the prime of life, in good health, quick to act, of good judgment and a men thoroughly posted in every Y. M. C. A. movement. All the movements of the international secretaries are directed by him, and all the business of the correction is under his personal supervision.

He could not stand the strain of the work, but for the fast that his wife, who accompanies him, helps bear his burdens.

Mr. Robert R. McBurney, a member of the committee and secretary of the New York association, is the oldest man in the work having been continuously employed as secretary of the New York association for twenty-three years. When he took charge of it, less than fifty years ago, the New York association had one room, a few chairs, tables, files of papers, a dust brush and an office boy who wielded it, who was McBurney himself. Under his management and largely through his influence the New York Y. M. C. A., has three buildings worth $700 000, a library of 30,000 volumes and $100,600 as a library endowment fund, employs some twenty men, and does the best work for young men that is done by any organization in the world. The cause at large owes very much to him. Mr. McBurney is a large, well preserved, seed dooking man, unmarried, but marriageable. The Rev. Dr. Munhall, secretary of the Y. M. C. association for the state of Indiana and evangelist. The audience was one of the finest ever assembled in Atlanta, and the interest in the meeting was greater than ever exhibited before.

The singing was spirited and was a decided feature of the services. Twenty or thirty voices came from the left of the pulpit and hundreds joined in Dr. Munhall took his text in the second chapter of Hebrews: "How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation." The speaker then expounded the Scriptures most lucidly, showing the plan of redemption in a most beautiful and glorious light. He dwelt upon salvation as great in view of the enormity of the sin from which it saves a man, great in view of the hell from which it saves him in future, great in view of the present place it gave a man, Here he drew a beautiful picture of the great war. He had been riding around Atlanta seeing the breastworks and the desolation war brought. He spoke of the difference between war and peace, and the difference in a man's heart when it was with God, This peace, he said, was so supreme and subling. He said that he carried this peace in his heart over many seas and continents, and it had flown as a river in his soul ever since he found Carist. It was greatsalvation in view of the heaven to of the enormity of the sin from

From the Detroit Post. "Did you ever have the tremens?" was the laconic inquiry made yesterday by one Detroiter of another. "The what?"

"The tremens, snakes, shakes, triangles, jimjams, side-jumps, or whatever you choose to call them."

"Oh, I ree; you mean the jerks. No, I never had them and I never will. I went through an experience once that convinced me I had no use for any nervous disturbance of that character. I experience once that convinced me I had no use for any nervous disturbance of that character. I was rooming with a capital young fellow at a hotel. But that fellow wouli get on the most hilarious batters of the most pronounced type. He'd get blind, howling orunk, and keep it up until nature would bring in her bills and send him to bed because he couldn't meet them. He'd spend all the money he had, all he could borrow, and then run his credit to the very limit. He was ready to be any body's friend, and the fact was taken advantage of while he could work the bars. He was quick to suger, and when his money disappeared he was inched never to have another one, and while his resolution prevalled he was gentlemanly, tidy as a fashion plate and the best of company. He was a democrat and cleveland's election took the young man clear off his feet. He was on the war path for two weeks. He was drunker than a lord and made Rome howl for keeps. Result of the Games as Played in Chattanooga nville, Memphis and Atlanta-Augusta urprises Everybody by Her Brilliant Dash-Macon and Chattanooga.

Atlanta increased her lead in the league on yesday. Nashville, which held second place, lost her game to Augusta (which Atlanta has beaten five games out of six and Atlanta forged ahead. There can surely be no complaint of gyesterday's game. Atlanta asked Columbus to name her own umpire, and she named Cartwright, who was at once telegraphed for. He umpired the game fairly, and gave every close decision, it appeared, against Atlanta. He established himself at once as a favorite-decisive, quick and firm. Atlanta won this game as she has won her othe games, by playing ball. The Columbus is the strongest team that has visited Atlanta. It beat Nashville three straight games and Nashville has since beaten Macon two out of three.

To-day's game will be close and the issue doubtful. The Columbus' play a strong and safe game. and are especially heavy at the bat. They met generous applause on yesterday and will have a larger crowd and more applause to day.

Columbus intends to put in her celebrated battery, Clark fand Strauss, to-day. Wick Miller their celebrated short stop, has been telegraphed for and will positively be here. Atlanta will put up Suliivan and Clarke. Henke, who was sick yesterday, will take his accustomed place on first. DETAILS OF THE GAME.

Chattanoega, Chicagoes, Birmingham. CHATTANOOGA, May 18 .- The Chattanoogas defeated the Birminghams to day by a score of seven to nothing. In the second inning, by hard batting and errors by the visitors, the home team made five innings and two more in eighth. After the second inning McCauley, the pitcher for the men. He was supported by Tracy. Hart and Cox were the battery for the home team and worked splendidly, only four hits being gotten off This, together with the brilliant fielding of the home I team shut the visitors out. The Crossly will be the visitor's battery to-morrow and Ramsey and Bullas for the home team. Fol-

Nashville Begins to Growl. NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 18.-[Special.]-Illegal pitching, adverse decisions of the umpire and gross errors, lost to-day's game for the Americans Kilroy threw over his shoulder the entire game and balked and stepped out of the box repeatedly After calling the attention of the umpire to Kilroy's throwing several times, and his refusing to stop it, Captain Kellogg notified him in the early part of the game that it would be protested. The umpiring of Morrison was the worst ever seen on the grounds, and in every case against the home team. The following is the score:

Macon Wins in Memphis. MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 18.—[Special.]—Only a fair crowd attended the first championship game be-tween the Memphis and Macon clubs, which resulted in a victory for the latter by a score of 3 to

2. The following is the score by innings: Glad They are Satisfied.

From the Nashville American of Yesterday. On Sunday afternoon Umpire Cartwright, of this city, was called by special order to Atlanta to umpire the game this afternoon between the Atlantas and the Columbus club. The fairness of Cartwright's rulings, and his firmness at every stage of the game, have made him a reputation and he is in general demand by clubs that want a square deal. Columbus and Atlanta will play a game this afternoon that will certainly be decided upon its merits, and the stronger club will win.

Interest in the Game SAVANNAH, Ga., May 18 .- [Special.] - Great interest is felt in the approaching game between Atlanta and Savannah. The latter are the favorites in the pool.

Soldiers at the Bat. Macon. May 18.—[Seecial.]—The game of base-ball between a nine from the Macon Volunteers and one from the Albany Guards at the grounds this aftermoon resulted in a score of 18 to 5 in favor of the Volunteers. Another game will be played

The surprise of the day was the winwas dusty. The surprise of the day was the winning of the Louisville cup by a California horse, Lucky B, who easily beat Swiney the favorite. First race—one half mile for two year olds, Marmoset won, Miss Bowler second, Mountain Raage third. Time 48½ seconds.

Second race, nine furlougs, Woodburn stakes, for three year olds, Bierson won, Banana second, Lord Colridge third. Time 1.56.

Third race for Louisville cup, two and one-eighth miles, Lucky B won, Swiney second, April Fool third. Time four minutes.

The Belt Was His.

From the San Francisco Alta. Half a dozen anglers met in a fishing tackle tore yesterday afternoon. All had been to the country and all had a fish story to tell. "Did you read that story about a man ploughing up the carp in the bottom of an old pond, or rather where a pond had existed a year before?" asked Mr. Willard.

"Yes, and the carp were alive," assented Mr. Losselyn. "Yes, and the carp were alive," assented Mr. Josselyn.
"The carp'is singularly tenacious of life," remarked Mr. Zeigler. "I remember once catching a basket of carp and bringing them home. But I was suddenly called away, and the basket remained in my buggy for five days. On my return I found every fish alive and as strong as when taken out of the water."

A grim silence followed Mr. Ziegler's statement, at last broken by Mr. Green, who inquired, "How many days, sir."

"Five days, sir, afterward." replied Mr. Ziegler, sternly.

many days, sir?"

"Five days, sir, afterward." replied Mr. Ziegler, sternly.

"That reminds me," said Mr. Green, "of a sea cell caught once off Saucelito. I took him home, but the folks would have nothing to do with it. I keep two Jersey cows but—"and Mr. Green's tale came to an abrupt halt.

"Go on, Charley," said Mr. Willard, "and what connection has a sea cel with a Jersey cow?"

"Ah, that's where the point comes in," said Mr Green. "The week after that eel was flung away, both cows went dry. I thought this very strange and, indeed, suspected my neighbors of milking them in the night. One evening I determined to watch for myself—but what is the use of telling you fellows, you wouldn't believe me."

"Oh, go on anyhow, Green."

"Well, gentlemen, I swear that at 11:30 on that night I saw with my own eyes that eel rise out of the grass, and fasten on the cow's udder. As soon as he milked her dry, he tackled the other and."

"That will do," said the proprietor of the store quietly. "Not another sentence. Mr, Green; the belt is yours," and he handed that gentleman a large Jeather belt with an oroamental buckle, which Mr. Green fitted on with much modesty. The other anglers exchanged giances of mountful gravity, and one by one tiled out of the store; the preprietor resumed the varnishing of a fish-pole, and Mr. Green, taking the hint himself, modestly withdrew.

TO-DAY'S CONVENTION.

EVERYTHING IN READINESS FOR A BRILLIANT SESSION.

Delegates Here From all Parts of the United States-The Various Committees of Atlantiaus-The Frogramme for To-day-The Crowd Coming Rapadly In-Prominent Men.

The commercial convention promises to open under the most auspicious circumstances. Delegates arrived all through the day yesterday and will continue to come in through to day.

The secretary, Mr. Tewksbury, reports that the registration book last night shows delegations from thirty states, and representation from the leading commercial bodies of the country, from Maine to California, and from Michigan to Texas and Florida. The fact is demonstrated beyond cavil that for high character, vast importance and permanent results the national commercial convention has come to be a permanent landmark in the history of this country. Atlanta, too, can justly celebrate the convention as a signal event upon the twentyfirst anniversary of the year of her destruction and the beginning of her new era. The magnitude and importance of the convention requires another call for assistance to the finance committee, and they desire to assure the citizens of Atlanta that the reason for this call and for a generous response is to do credit to Atlanta, which is so deeply interested in the complete and finally flattering success of the work undertaken by her chamber of commerce, and so far carried out with such gratifying re-

As their time is entirely taken up now by attending to delegates, the committee earnestly request all who desire to subscribe, thereby securing tickets to the complimentary banquet, will call or send the amount to room No. 104 Kimball house, or to the office of Chairman Gholstin, in

The best seats in the opera house are reserved for ladies and their escorts, and they are invited to attend the opening of the convention at ten 'clock this morning. The exercises will be very interesting.

WHO ARE HERE.

The trains will come in well laden with delegatas this morning. There are already over one hundred delegates registered at the rooms of the committee and probably there are twenty-five more who arrived yesterday and did not register. There will be certainly over two hundred delegates representing thirty or more states and nearly every leading city in the union. Among the prominent arrivals yesterday were General Brink-erhoft, of. Ohio, Ex-Speaker Hovt, of Virginia, Major Tucker, of Raleigh, N. C., Congressman Darwin R. James, of New York, Philo Parsons, Congressman John G. Symes, of Colorado, Hon. N. Huntington, of New Hampshire. A great many prominent delegates will arrive to-day, and by the time the convention assembles it will be truly a representative body of American business men.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Stocks as Reported in the New York Stock Exchanges NEW YORK, May 18.—The stock market has been unusually active, at times feverish and somewhat irregular to-day. With few exceptions prices this morning were % to % per cent higher than the ian 'lose Saturday, which was immediately succeeded y a decline of small fractions throughout the list, but after the first fifteen minutes a rally was started which continued until noon. The highest prices were generally reached about twelve o'clock. The market then became steady at an advance and so continued until the last hour, when it yielded materially, all early gains being lost in some cases, and finally closed weak at irregular prices as compared with Saturday. While this was the general course of the market some of the leading stocks furnish prominent exceptions. New York Central was weak all day, closing 1 per cent below Saturday. Union Pacific was also an exception, fluctuating without regard to the other stocks, and after reaching 54% closing at 52%, a net loss of 3/2 per cent. Lackanawanna closed 1 and Western Union 34 per cent higher. The Bankers and Merchants is to have a new receiver. Sales

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movements in Grain and Produce.

By telegraph to The Constitution. CHICAGO, May 18-There was a fair degree of activity in the wheat market to-day with prices fluctuating rather wildly early in the day. The opening was firm, and prices advanced 1/3/2/40 over the closing figures of Saturday, after which a neavy selling movement was inaugurated and the market declined sharply 11/2c, but steadied and recovered slowly, the latest trading of the day being at figures only a shade lower than the closing of Saturday. Foreign advices indicated dull and easy market, while telegrams from winter wheat districts spoke more encouragingly of the outlook This, with fine weather and warm rains, caused the early selling. Reports of another cold wave, and telegrams asserting that the winter wheat out look had in nowise improved was given as a reason for the later advance.

Speculation in corn was of a moderate character, and trading was somewhat unsettled, sympathiz ing more or less with wheat. The market was steady at the opening, after which prices broke se, then steanily improved with free buying by some prominent operators, which finally alarmed the shorts and caused a sharp advance of 11/4c, May showing the greatest advance. Roceipts continue fair and the shipping demand good. The market finally closed for the day 11/6c higher for May, %c higher for June and %c higher for July than Saturday. Oats ruled weak and somewhat lower, but reacted later in the day and closed steady. The provisions market was dull with an easie feeling prevailing.

Committee

The resolution is:

Resolved. That a committee of five be appoint to who shall respectfully ask the mayor and general council to postpone until the next regulal meeting of the general council any action looking to the sale of the water works, in order that the people may have time to discuss this important subject in mass meeting, and prevent the result of such discussion to the general council.

THE DEBATE THAT ENSUED.

THE DEBATE THAT ENSUED.

The reading of the report of the committee was called for by Mr. Mahoney. The clerk read the report, the same that was submitted at the last meeting of the body. The report was famuable to the sale of the works in accordance with Mr. Hildreth's first proposition, and was made up by the water commission and the committee on waterworks.

Mr. Beatic asserted that he believed it beat

Mr. Beatie asserted that he believed it beat Mr. Beatic asserted that he believed it best for the city to make the sale. He said that so far the Holly system had proven a failure in Atlanta and that the purchasers were anxious to show that the Holly system could be made a success. He argued that the $250,000 to be paid to the city could be used to an advantage, and asserted that the city was not in condition to improve the works.

prove the works. Mr. McAfeq declared that the Atlanta water. works were the poorest in the world. He said that the water could be used only for fire pur-poses and for wetting the streets. He asserted

THE WATER WAS SO MUDDY that the fire department would have to enlarge the negzles in order to get water on fires. He said that the holes in the street sprinklers had to be made as large as his finger to get the water through. He wanted to sell. Mr. Hutchison said he thought the water Mr. Hutchison said he thought the water works properly too valuable for hasty action in this matter. It belongs to the people of Atlanta. It is operated for their benefit and protection, and they have a right to be heard on the question of its sale. Let them assemble in mass meeting. Let them examine into this question and perhaps out of the wisdom of such meeting there may come some solution of the problem that now confronts us.

Mr. Rice thought that the city ought to run the water works or give them up.

Mr. Garrett believed in hearing from the people. He wanted the mayor to recommit the papers to the committee and commission, committee of citizens. Mr. Van Winkle advocated the same steps. Mr. Middlebrook wanted the body to ask the legislature for a bill allowing the people to vote on an additional tax to the amount of $100,000 for the waterworks improvement. $100,000 for the waterworks improvement.

The question was finally postponed for ultimate action at the next general meeting of the council, and the papers were recommitted to the waterworks committee, the waterworks commission and a committee of twenty citizens to be appointed at the mass meeting to be called by the chamber of commerce.

The retail liquor dealers of Atlanta sent in a petition asking that the retail liquor license be kept at $300, and not increased to $500.

Mr. Mahoney moved that the rules be suspended to hear from Hon. John B. Goodwin.

pended to hear from Hon. John B. Goodwin, representing the petitioners.

Mr. Goodwin addressed the general council at lergth. He argued that the increase changed.

Mr. McAfee moved to reconsider the tax or-introducing a resolution prohibiting boot blacks from plying their vocation on Sunday after ten o'clock in the morning. Mr. Garrett said that he was induced to offer the resolution because the boot blacks were a constant annoyance to church going people. The resolution was adonted.

The general council in regular session yeserday afternoon devoted nearly two hours to the question, and then committed the solution to the people.

Immediately after the body had been called to order Mr. Garrett, of the second ward, arose and stated that a committee from the chamber of co. merce was present and had something of great importance to present to the general council. The committee was invited to seats on the floor. It was composed of Messrs.

J. M. ALEXANDER,

The resolution is: Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed who shall respectfully ask the mayor and general council to postpone until the next regular meeting of the general council any action meeting of the general council any action looking to the sale of the water works, in order that the people may have time to discuss this important subject in mass meeting, and prevent the result of such discussion to the general council.

The reading of the report of the committee as called for by Mr. Mahoney. The clerk read eport, the same that was submitted at he last meeting of the body. The report was a mable to the sale of the works in accordwith Mr. Hildreth's first proposition, in was made up by the water commission und the committee on waterworks.

that the fire department would have to enlarge the nozzles in order to get water on fires. He said that the holes in the street sprinklers said that the holes in the street sprinklers had to be made as large as his finger to get the water through. He wanted to sell.

Mr. Hutchison said he thought the water works property too valuable for hasty action in this matter. It belongs to the people of Atlanta. It is operated for their benefit and protection, and they have a right to be heard on the question of its sale. Let them assemble in mass meeting. Let them examine into this question and perhaps out of the wisdom of such meeting there may come some solution of the problem that now confronts us.

Mr. Middlebrook wanted the body to ask the legislature for a bill allowing the people to vote on an additional tax to the amount of $100,000 for the waterworks improvement.

The question was finally postponed for ultimate action at the next general meeting of the council, and the papers were recommitted to the waterworks committee, the waterworks commission and a committee of twenty citizens ointed at the mass meeting to be called by the chamber of commerce.

The retail liquor dealers of Atlanta sent in a petition asking that the retail liquor license be kept at $300, and not increased to $500.

THE BARRACKS SITE.

General Hancock Still in the City-No Place Probably Selected Yet, General Hancock is still in the city and will probably remain here for several days to come.
When asked yesterday what he had done in reference to the selection of a site for the permanent barracks to be established in Atlanta he declined to make any statement whatever. The general has gone about this investigation in a business like manner, that is characteristic of business like manner, that is characteristic of him. He will not make known whatever decision he may reach in reference to the choice of a site until it is expressed in his report to the secretary of war. Since he came to Atlanta he has driven out on every road leading from the city, and has acquired an accurate knowledge of the surrounding country for five or six miles in every direction. He spent a large part of yesterday in the inspection of several sites which are offered for sale. It is known that the general thinks it would It is known that the general thinks it would be well to have the barracks a considerable distance outside the city limits, say three or dea absolutely nothing is known by those nearest to him of his plans or preferences in the matter before him. He speaks in the highest terms of the situation of Atlanta and its availability as a military post.

The general has received many calls from representative citizens since his arrival, but he has made business his first and commanding consideration. There was auniversal regret that he felt compelled to decline the banquet which was tendered him by the citizens and which would have been made a grand affair had he accepted it.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 18, 1885.—Editors Constitution: In view of the tragical occurrence of the poisoning by ice cream referred to in The Constitution a few days ago, and we may add, the almost periodical poisonings with each recurring ice cream season, we have felt it our duty to send you for publication the following extract from a letter just received from our highly esteemed and honorable friends, the White Mountain Freezer Co., of Nashua, N. H:

"Referring to the telegraphic report of the poisoning at Tallulah Falls, viz:

One Hundred Persons Poisoned.

One Hundred Persons Poisoned, ATLANTA, Ga., May 14.—About 100 persons were to-day poisoned at a piente at Tallulah Falls through a chemical change made in an ice cream freezer. They were made seriously ill but are recovering. through a chemical change made in an ice cream freezer. They were made seriously ill but are recovering.

"We beg to say that we have been cautioning people for the past ten years not to use zine coated vessels of any kind where food or water are to be used from them. We have within a week learned of thirty-eight persons being poisoned at a church festival in Connecticut. Also sixty in Brooklyn, N. Y., all from the same cause—zince-coated ice cream freezers, where the zinc comes in contact with the cream."

They further inform us that all are perfectly safe in buying and using the Triple Motion White Mountain Ice Cream Freezers, inflamuch as, not only are all parts coming in contact with the cream coated with pure block tin, but their mechanical construction combines every improvement for quick, economical and safe freezing. Zinc is a well known poison.

This communication being published pro bono publico we suggest that, inasmuch as we do not deal in freezers, further particulars respecting them may be obtained from the abbove address.

Rice & Wilson Gate AT AUCTION.

-- Forty Large and --BEAUTIFUL LOTS,

-BEGINNING AT-2 O'Clock, P M., Wednesday, June 3d, 1885.

ON THE-BELT RAILROAD -BETWEEN THE-

Howell Mill Road & W. & A. R. R.

AT HOWELL.

THESE ARE ABSOLUTELY THE MOST DESIRable vacant lots ever offered to the public possessing so many railroad facilities. Here you have Selt road leading East, with the W. & A. and & V. West, and the Georgia Pacific South E. T. & V. West, and the Georgia Pacific Southwest. For every imaginable manufacturing purple, this property is superior to any around Attaina. This is ultimately destined to be occupied for Coal Yards, occomotive, wood and iron shops. 'Tis the most eligible and desirable peint for receiving coal or crude material from the west, and has every convenience for shipping from Atlanta. While it receives all these benefits, it is too remote to be city taxed for the next fifty years. This property offers such an extensive railroad from it cannot fall to attract capital—not alone in our city, but throughout the country at large.

From this location you hear the buz of thousands of spindles in the Exposition cotton mills, which lie adjacent.

sands of spindles in the Exposition cotton mane, which lie adjacent.
Upon this body of land are some elegant residence sites, high and commanding, with as pure well water as can be found in the earth. Such places are exceedingly valuable, being so very convenient to business. The surrounding property cannot be bought at any price at present, and is owned by the most farseeing gentlemen in the country, which proves that it is the most suitable place for a permanent investment. No man whe has purchased in this direction has railed to real the appreciation in value. Yet the place for a permanent investment. No man who has purchased in this direction has railed to realize a profit or appreciation in value. Yet the demand has just now began to grow. A few years ago this was the most quiet part of Atlanta. To day you are impressed with the hum of machinery and whirl of wheels in this section.

Here is your lot for your factory, with home adjoining, and no extra charge for transferring cars. Every train that passes the Belt road is bound to call a halt, thus enabling you to use them as readily as horse cars. This land belongs to a non-resident, and will be sold on its merit. The subdivision has been made, after an accurate survey, and every lot properly pegged. A careful review proves that the greatest possible advantage to each lot has been kept in mind.

We regard this as the most favorable opportunity for a first-class investment that has been offered at public outery for years. The lots not only front the railread, but have bold fronts on Oglethorpe street, Euclid avenue, Howell's Mill road and other streets, one of which is macadamized all the way to the city.

The increasing population that will settle on this and adjacent property will necessitate the rection of storchouses for the business that is bound to follow. Then, 'its wisdom to secure your business lots at this sale when you can buy comparatively cheap. The steam cars will leave union depot at precisely at 2 o'clock p. m., halt at Simpson street for passengers, and in about 4 minutes arrive at the premises.

We invite every body to go out to the sale at our veneme. The train returns immediately after the sale. Terms, one third cash, balance In six and twelve month 8 per cent.

Some of our competitors claim when they can't meet our low prices that their goods are French. Yes, we say! Quite Frenchy, just so very Frenchy, you know.

Well, we reckon mayby they do put on a little too much French when they are marking up their stock. But now we are going to give you a little of Young America.

We sell good Huck, Damask and Crash Towels for 71/2, 10, 12 and 15 cents each. Just think of a large size pure Linen Towel at 71/2 cents. Table Linen, bleached, unbleached and turkey red Damask from 25 cts. to $1 per yard. Our assortment and patterns in turkey red Damask at 50, 65 and 75 cents are especially handsome and new, and you will find the prices full 25 per cent off.

Also at the same time and place, and under the same principle of low prices, we will show you a grand stock of white goods, full 15 per cent under former prices.

No doubt you think you have seen cheap laces, but we are going to convince the best experts that they know nothing about handsome laces and low prices. We opened during last few days an immense stock of laces of the most choice patterns and designs. Many of them will be sold at less than half former prices. The stock consists of Oriental, Egyptian, Vals and many other laces handsome and cheap.

MAJOR BURKE'S MISFORTUNE. Said to be a Heavy Loser by the New Orlea Exposition,

WASHINGTON, May 19 .- The announces

Washington, May 19.—The announceme was made the other day that Major Burke har resigned his post as director-general of the New Orleans exposition. It caused little su prise to those in a position to know the circun stances under which Mr. Burke was compelled to ask to be relieved the onerous duties devolving upon the responsible head of such an undertaking. It have been known here for some time that the decision of the attorney general, which declare that no part of the appropriation of $365,00 made by congress last session could be used it the payment of Louisiana creditors, would the payment of Louisiana creditors, wou involve Major Burke in financi disaster. This has come to pass. disaster. This has come to pass. I December and January, during the first day of the exposition, Major Burke became per sonally responsible for the debts contracted to the management to the amount of some $150, one $1.50, 000. It was expected that the gate receipt would prove sufficient to cover that amount This was not the case, however, and when the attorney general rendered his decision under which, after the payment of every outside creditor, about $200,000, remains as an unexpended balance, the holders of claims for which Mr. Burke had become responsible. unexpended balance, the holders of claims for which Mr. Burke had become responsible looked to him for settlement of their demands. It is understood that he has surrendered both his and his wife's property to satisfy these claims. Nothing remains of his fortune except a share in the Times Democrat, and it is to devote his entire energy to that paper that he resigned his place as discator-general. Much sympathy is expressed in Weshington for Mr. Burke, especially as it is knows that he resigned the pay of $10,000 a year as director-general voted him by the management, preferring to take stock to the same amount in the enterprise, and giving such stock as a present to the Louisiana State agricultural college afterward.

Director-General Burke to-day transferred to the finance committee of the exposition all the claims of foreign creditors with statements embodying all information in his possession relating to the accounts which are in controverse and his approach of all the early in the state which are in controverse and his approach is a supported to the support of the s relating to the accounts which are in contro versy and his approval of all those which are not disputed. Director-General Burke, owing to the stress of his personal and professiona business. has been obliged to insist woon the business, has been obliged to insist upon the acceptance of his resignation.

The world's exposition will be closed May 31st. Friends of the exposition have raised $85,000 by subscription to meet the expense of carrying it over until next November, when it will be reopened. Superintendent Jeffery of the Illinois Central railroad has telegraphed that the wilvesd and ear companies reaching. that the railroad and car companies reaching New Orleans will subscribe $100,000 toward New Orleans will subscribe $100,000 towards the expense of reopening the exposition next winter. The citizens' committee is slill receiving subscriptions, and the sum required will be made up. The board of management has paid off fifty per cent of its indebtedness, and believes that the exposition can be reopened next winter free of debt.

GENERAL GRANT DOING WELL. He Dedicates His Book to the Soldiers of His Country.

New York, May 19.—General Grant did not suffer much pain last evening nor through the night, and after the usual number of hours' sleep he awoke this morning with little or no pain. Dr. Douglass remained during the night, and when he left this morning he said he thought the general in common with so many others of late had contracted tome cold. This did not add any other difficulty than hoarseness which, however, was not distressing, though noticeable.

At 1:15 o'clock to-day General Grant went for a drive. Mr. Webster, the publisher of the general's book, when seen at his office to-day, stated that General Grant had to-day written the dedication for his forthcoming work. It is as follows:

"To the officers and soldiers engaged in the war of the rebeffion, and also those engaged in the war in Mexico, these volumes are dedicated.

General Grant made a grand rally to-day His Country.

General Grant made a grand rally to day after his drive and said he felt better than he had done in a whole week. He worked on his book correcting for a couple of hours and engaged in a conversation with his family. His hoarseness is little better and his pain is somewhat mitigated.
